TO SAVE THE OPERA HOUSE

A CIRCULAR SENT TO THE METROPOLITAN

STOCKHOLDERS. A conference was held yesterday between Henry Warren and Henry Clews, the chalrmen of the committee appointed at the meeting of the stockholders of the Mctropolitan Opera House, on Monday, for the carrying out of their respective plans for buying the opera house property at the foreclosure side on February 14. Mr. Warren and Mr. Clews discussed the two plans, both of which aim at saving the house for the continuance of operatic productions. There was also a meeting of Mr. Clews's committee, and later a circular was self to each stockholder of the Metropolitan Opera House Company. It sets forth the plan of Mr. Clews, and is issued in accordance with the powers given to the committee by the meeting of Monday. The circular is as follows:

January 31, 1893. Dear sir: At a meeting of the stockholders of the Dear sir: At a meeting of the stockholders of the Metropolitan Opera House Company, held yesterday, Elbridge T, Gerry, esq., presiding, the following plan was adopted: "That the chair appoint a committee of three to confer personally or by correspondence with all the stockholders, with a view of securing as many as possible to solution in the purchase of the Metropolitan Opera House Company's property and the Metropolitan Improvement Company's property at the auction sale, the 14th day of Pebruary: providing the committee succeed in securing at least thirty-four stockholders to come in, then the committee to be authorized to buy the property for and in mittee to be authorized to buy the property for and in their behalf, providing its purchase can be made at a price not to exceed $1.750,000."

Messrs. Henry Clews, J. Pierpont Morgan and Charles Lanier were appointed a committee.

Each stockholder coming into this scheme will be en titled to a parferre box, which will be therev-four in num-ber. Please advise the committee therefore whether you will subscribe for either a box, a half or a third of one. It is expected that the entire property will be obtainable at about $1,500,000, which amount covers all the out-standing indebtodness, in which event it will require an assessment upon each of the thirty-four bexholders of not compared. Mr. Clews said yesterday that it was proposed, in case of the restoration of the opera house, to have both German and Italian open, but he could not tell by what plan or under what conditions. It is re-ported that a plan has been entertained by the Metro-politan Improvement Company, of buying the house, the front corners of which this company already owns, devoting a larger part of the space than at present to apartments and renting the rest for opera.

A NEWARK JURY MIXED UP.

THEY DID NOT KNOW WHOM THEY HAD DE-CIDED FOR UNTIL THE CLERK OF THE COURT MADE A SUBGESTION.

In the Circuit Court at Newark yesterday a jury returned a verdict and then did not know what their finding meant. The studebaker Manu-facturing Company, of Indiana, sued the New-Jersey Draying and Contracting Company, Meyers Bros., who do the city scavenger work, for $202.78 for scavenger wagons and plans and specifications for wagons. The latter item amounted to $35 and was disputed. When the jury returned after deliberating, the fer man handed the written verdict to the clerk of the court, and as that official opened it, he started in to recite the

"For the defendant," responded the foreman.
The clerk by this time had the paper open, and began to glance over it as he continued: "Gentlemen of the Jury, you will find for—" Here he stopped and scanned the paper given him by the foreman. "For the defendant," said the foreman.

"For the plaintiff, you mean," corrected the clerk. "Yes, for the plaintiff," assented a number of lurars in concert. "No, for the defendant," came from a number of other jurors. "But," said the clerk, "you have found for some-

"That's all right," came from all of the jurors.

The lack of interest shown in the welfare of the club by a large majority of its members is a cause of rritation to the more loyal members, who are work ng night and day to help the club out of its financial difficulties. One of the hardest workers for the Cherry Diamond cause said last night:

"Our club has a membership of 1,000 at present That number is not exact, as the actual membership may be a few over or a few under that number. In that 1,600 there are about 100 real workers, and the other 1,500 stand by like a lot of 'ningles' and say nothing. It might not be such a bad idea for the present club to disband and then have it reorganized. Now, suppose that 1,500 would step forward and subscribe $100 each. That would make $150,000, and with that sam in addition to the provisions already made we could get out of our trouble at ten minutes'

C. M. Maxwell said that the club was in the hands of the receiver, Andrew Freedman, and that every taking was going along all right. The ways and means committee was not increased, as was intended. No additional subscriptions to the fund were received.

J. Seaver Page, who has been Chicago, arrived in this city yesterday. To Mr. Page's energy, devotion and public spirit, much of the interest shown by New-York basiness men in the success of the World's Fair may fairly be ascribed. The natural disappointment felt by many citizens of this city at the loss of the Fair, engendere a spirit of indifference which for a time threatened the character and number of exhibits from this State. Auburn, the National World's Fair Commissioners from this state, gave a dinner to the representative business men of New-York in the hope of overcoming thi feeling. The arrangements were left to Mr. Page, who volunteered his services, and to his intimate knowledge of men and affairs of the city and the untiring energy with which he applied bimself to his of the dinner, and the ensuing enthusiasm with which

Mr. Page spoke at this dinner, and his assurances of the hearty co-operation of New-York State for th success of the Fair were warmly applanded. On Saturday night he attended the banquet of the Commercial Club at the Grand Pacific Hotel.

"The Exposition buildings," said Mr. Page, " are now complete, and are practically ready for the occupancy exhibits. When they come to or unmake the great Fair. has done everything she has promised, and has provided magnificent buildings and beautiful surroundings. New York is hand-omely represented in the architectural work of the Exposition by some of her best workers, and the thing in its entirety is be-yond what any one could hope or expect. I had a talk with John Foord, of the New York State Commission, and he said that the accusations that have been made against the Fair Commission about no giving enough space to New-York and other Stawere very unjust. About five times too much sp had been applied for, and it was natural that the

had been applied for, and it was materal that there should be some disappointment over the allocance. Mr. Food personally examined the complaints of New York applicants, and he personally assured me that there was not a single instance of unjust discrimination, and said that New York would make as fine a display as any other state in the Union. "Chicago people are very much impressed with the character of our commissioners. They have performed their duty with ability and zeal. They have performed their duty with ability and zeal. They have performed with Governor Flower, who was present, with his staff, at the dedication of the handsomest buildings there, and New York people will be proad of it." With regard to the damage of some of the Fair buildings caused by the weight of the snow breaking the role, he said that the damage was estimated at $100,000, but the loss would fail on the contractors and the damage could be repaired in ample time.

From The Washington Post.

If the question of the Presidency could be left to the members of the House they would chose Adial Stevenson. He is the kind of man they want. They remember how the anc was swing when he was in the office of the First Assistant Postmister-General, and they want it swing again. That reminds me of some unpublished history that I heard the other day regarding the manner in which Mr. Stevenson secured such a wholesome decapitation of fourth-class postmisters. He called lute his room, one by one, the clerks who had charge of the appointments in the various States, and he made a pleasant, fatherly speech to each of them. "Now," he said, "I suppose you want to stay here and draw your salary. Well, if you know your work there is no reason why you if you know your work there is no reason why you should not be retained. CLEVELAND AND GRESHAM.

TALK ADOUT THE SUPREME COURT.

THE WESTERN JUDGE, IT IS SAID, WILL BE AP-POINTED TO JUSTICE LAMAR'S VACANCY UNDER CERTAIN CONDITIONS.

President-elect Cleveland "showed up" at his law office in the Mills faillding about 19:30 a.m. yesterday and sat for visitors as usual. The caller in position was more widely known. His funeral will whom he was most interested and to whose report take place to-merrow afternoon at the Summerfield he gave up the greater part of his time was ex-Postmaster-General Don M. Dickinson. That states-man had just arrived from his hurried trip to Chicago, where Mr. Cleveland had sent him with message to Judge Walter Q. Gresham. Mr. Dickinson after a long interview with Mr. Cleveland at Lakewood last Thursday had started for Chicago on Friday, reaching the Richelieu Hotel in that city and the Kings County Bank and other financial instituand generated a belief in Chicago that New-York's Friday, reaching the Richellen Hotel in that city regret had become crystallized into hostliny to the Fair. At this critical time Channey M. Depew, John Boyd Thacher, of Albany, and Gaeton W. Allen, of register at the botel and took various extraordinary precantions to prevent his presence from being known. Henry Watterson was in Chicago at the same time, hav ing been sent there by Senator Carlisle, and he con ferred with both Dickinson and Gresham. Mr. Dick Inson left Chicago on Sunday night for New-York and was here yesterday to report to his master the results of his errand. What that errand was a well-posted Democrat explained last evening. He said:

"People who imagine that all this funny business which has been going on between President-elect Cleveland and Judge Gresham with Don M. Dickinson, Wayne MacVeigh and others as intermediaries, refers to the offer of a Cabinet place to Mr. Gresham, are entirely at sea. There is no Cabinet arrangement in this affair. The place involved is the vacancy on the Supreme Bench of the United States, caused by Club. A feature of the dinners of the club is selection of some topic for discussion affecting the selection of some topic for the evening was weifare of the city. The subject for the evening was declared for Cleveland last fall he did so in accordance to the control of the United States, caused the death of Justice L. Q. C. Lamar. When Gresham declared for Cleveland last fall he did so in accordance to the control of the United States, caused the death of Justice L. Q. C. Lamar. When Gresham declared for Cleveland last fall he did so in accordance to the control of the United States, caused the death of Justice L. Q. C. Lamar. When Gresham declared for Cleveland last fall he did so in accordance to the control of the United States, caused the death of Justice L. Q. C. Lamar. with a bargain which had been made with him through certain close friends of blish the parties to the deal, that Cleveland should appoint Gresham to the first vacancy which should occur among the United State suprems Court judges after his election. It was exretirement of Justice stephen J. Field, but Lamar's death has presented an unexpected opportunity. It belongs to the Republicans, of course, as everybody knows, for both the President and the United States

"last the game is to steal Lamar's place from the so many business men at a dinner so deeply interested Republicans and give it to Gresham. That is what in the problem of keeping streets clean, and I was all these secret messages between Cleveland and very much pleased at their interest.

Gresham are Intended to accomplish. Gresham is apposed to have several warm friends in the Senate on the Republican side, who are said to be anxion to aid him in his ambition for the Supreme Bench.
If Gresham and his friends can prevent the Republican senate from confirming President Parison's nominee for Justice Lamar's place, Mr. Cleveland will send in Gresham's name in the briefest possible time after he becomes President, and the Senate in its changed condition after March 4 can be relied upon to do the rest. Cleveland will thus be able to pay an ante-election debt with an office purloined from his Republican predecessor, and will have the Field vacancy to fill beside, which will be clear gain.

"This is not a very hightened operation for either the immaculate Mr. Cleveland or that pure and exalted jurist, Judge Gresham, to be engaged to, but it is exactly what they are in, and if there are enough weak Republicans in the present senate the whole plot will come out inside of six weeks. That the Republicans escaped when they failed to nominate Mr. Gresham in 1888 and placed Mr. Harrison at the hend of their ticket they can now see in the dicke cresham. Mr. Gresham II may be remembered was very desirous of accepting the Republican nomination or President on the identical tariff platform on which General Harrison ran. His conversion from Repub-lenniem to Populism and thence to Clevelandism is not among the least interesting of the political phenonema which have been observable of late."

Helens, Mont., Jan. 31.-Montana is now experience ing the coldest wave she has seen in seven years. Within the past week it snowed four days continuously with a total fall of sixteen inches, and stockmen measy. It was thirty-one below zero here last vening, at Great Falls thirty-six below, at Glasgov n the northern part of the State forty below, while at Missonia, in the western part of the State, it is warmer, being thirty above. Seattle, Wash., Jan. 31.—The snowstorm which began on last Thursday right and has continued with more or less severity ever since, has at last developed into the nearest approach to a bilizard ever known in this climate. In Scattle there are sixteen inches of snow on the level and a strong wind is pilling it in buge drifts in all unprotected spots. The thermometer is failing rapidly and this morning was 10 above zero. To the north of this city the storm is much more severe. The cold snap in the Frazier Valley is the severest since 1888. The thermometer is 8 degrees above zero, but is expected to fall lower. There are three inches of snow on the ground. Above the city the river is frozen for lifty inlies and teams will soon be able to cross on the ice. on last Thursday right and has continued with more elizabethport has at last been broken. The Pennsylvania and Lehigh Valley railroad companies made a oncerted effort yesterday to raise the embargo which has prevailed for nearly three weeks, and sent out eight powerful ings to cut a channel through the ice. eight powerful tings to cut a channel through the lee. The Lugs proceeded two abreast, and after a hard nattle with the ice they succeeded in forcing a passage through to Elizabethport. The most trouble was experienced at the point where the Rahaay River empties into the Kills, the ice there being fourteen inches thick. Although there is now a passage for the boats, the ice on each side of the channel is still solid, and another severe cold wave would make things as bad as they were before.

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM H. BEARD.

William H. Beard, a prominent Brooklyn Republican and a wealthy business man, died yesterday at his home, No. 200 Clermont ave., at the age of fifty-four years. He had been ill for six months with liver trouble. "Harry" Beard, as he was known to his many friends, was a prominent figure in Brooklyn affairs for a third of a century. No man, not in public Methodist Episcopal Church. The Rev. Drs. T. P. Frost, C. M. Giffin and W. Eowdish will conduct the services. The pullbearers will be E. E. Bartistt. Jesse Johnson, Theodore B. Willis, D. M. Hurley, Franklin Woodruff, C. M. Kimpland, ex-Judge George G. Reynolds and Foster Pettitt. The Union League tions in which he was a director, will be represented. Mr. Beard's wife, who was Miss Lavinia Summer-field, sister of John Summerfield, two sons and a daughter survive him. He had two brothers and three sisters.

Mr. Beard was born in 1839 and was the son of William Beard, who came to this country from Ireland in 1825, and amassed a fortune as a contractor. At the ag of eighteen the son, who had a good common school education, became associated with his father, and re-mained with him until 1869, when he went into business for bimself. He was engaged in the dredging business, at the head of the arm of Beard & Kimpland, In conjunction with his father he built a large portion of the Erie Basin and the warehouses along it, in South Brooklyn. Under General Grant's Administration Mr. Beard dredged the Potomac flats, at Washington. Mr. Beard dredged the Potomac flats, at Washington. Mr. Beard served in the army during the war, and was always active in politics. He went to the National Convention in 1880, to arge the third term movement.

nearly twenty years Mr. Beard was on the Republican state Committee, and served in the Kings County Committee, and as a delegate to many conventions. He never held elective office, but was a member of the Brooklyn Board of Education for a number of vears. After his father's death he managed the Beard estate, which was valued at $10,000,000.

Mr. Beard formerly lived in President st., fouth Brooklyn, and it was at his home there that he gave a receivion to General Grant, after the latter's return from his tip around the world. A few years upo Mr. Beard removed to Clinton-ave, and has recently lived at No. 200 Clerment ave., while his house in Clinton-ave, was being rebuill. He had a country home at Arverne by the sea.

MRS. ELIZA PHELPS BARNES.

Mrs. Eliza Phelps Barnes, who died recently at Y., in her ninetieth year, was the mother of the Hon. William Barnes, of Albany, ex-superintendent of the Insurance Department. She was one of a family of cloven children, all of whom, except one of a family of eleven children, all of whom, except fluce, lived to a great age. One of her brothers, Willis Phelps, of Springfield, Mass, the railroad builder, died at the age of seventy-eight years, and another brother died at the age of eighty five years. One of her sisters died at the uge of cighty years, another at the age of eighty-six years, and still another at the age of eighty-two years. One of her brothers, who survives her, the last member of the family, is seventy-one years old. In its notice of her death "The Haldwinsville Gazette" says: "Mrs. Barnes was an indefatigable worker, of great industry and execu-tive ability, and in the early ploneer days of Onondaga County she shared with her husband, the late Orson Parnes, the hardships and trials of those days, when the Barnes, the hardships and trials of those days, when the highways through dense forests were marked by blazed trees, and the log house of the early settler was surrounded by the first growth trees of four, five and even up to six feet in diameter. She survived her husband over forty years, Mr. Orson Barnes will be remembered by the older residents of onondaga County as one of its first County superintendents of common Schools, serving in that capacity for several years with marked success and ability."

The wedding of Miss Lillian Kerr, a daughter of Hamilton Kerr, to Percival Kuhne, the young banker the Lordships of Kieferstaediel and Zembowitz, General of Prussian Cavairy and hereditary member of the Upper House, was a Chevaller of the Order of the Black Eagle and held other dignities.

AN OPERA FOR CHARITY.

In the Music Hall last night Mascagni's opera, "L'Amico Fritz," was performed under the auspices of the Young Men's Hebrew Association for the benefit of its charities. The affair was a matter of ocial rather than an artistic concern, though there were features in it which seemed to appeal to the taste of the musical people present. The opera as whole was new to New-York, but most of its music has been heard here in the popular concerts of Messrs. Damrosch and Seidt. The principal singers, with th Damrosch and Seidt. The principal singers, with the exception of Payne Clark, tenor, who filled the role of Fritz, were the same as those who gave the opera in Philadelphia last summer. They were Selma Kronald-Koert, Clara Poole-King, and Signor Del The conductor of the Philadelphia Gustave Hinrichs, directed the performances, place of Walter Damrosch, who had not yet returned from Washington, where he attended the funeral of Mr. Blaine. The orchestra was that of the Symphony Society. The audience was numerous and attentive, but scarcely demonstrative in its appreciation of the performance. Printed circulars asked indulgence for the tenor on the score of a sore throat, which, however, did not seem to interfere with his singing. The patronesses of the entertainment were the fellowing: Mrs. S. J. Bach. Mrs. Leopold S. Bache, Mrs. Lyman G. Bloomingdale, Mrs. J.
